

Mike Dario; Heinz Bauer; Charles Davis; Gerry McCue; Jack Burns; Terry Jack; Duncan Adkins; Joe Leavell; Wally Hilmo; Jon Fouts

Bitburg	70	Berlin	26
	65		26
Bitburg	54	Mannheim	51
	34		37
Bitburg	59	Baumholder	27
	60		34
Bitburg	57	Bremerhaven	54
	69		48
Bitburg	61	Wuerzburg	48
	65		50
Bitburg	62	Augsburg	59
	62		58

CLASS B LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Our victorious team began the season by traveling all the way to Berlin where won both games. Our boys went next to Mannheim to win one and to take our only defeat. Baumholder played in our gym for our next two games. Bremerhaven was our next conquest and our team members enjoyed their visit to that city very much. Our last two games of the season were played home so we had a chance to give our to support our very popular team.

Standing: Mr. Willis, Coach; Mike Dario; Heinz Bauer; Charles Davis; Charles Loveless; Gerry McCue; Jerry Ayers, Manager
 Kneeling: Wally Hilmo; Jack Burns; Terry Jack; Duncan Adkins, Joe Leavell; Jon Fouts

RUNNER-UP IN THE EUROPE CLASS B TOURNAMENT

Terry Jack

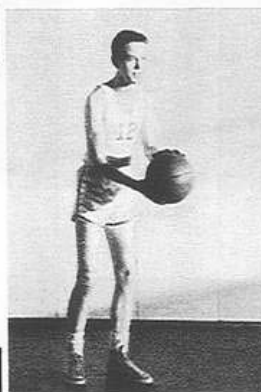

Our hard-fighting cagers reached the finals in the Tournament by defeating Camp Darby 60—42 and Rochefort 47—53. The final game with Chateauroux resulted in a 59—56 defeat for the plucky Bitburg Junior Barons.

Wally Hilmo

Jack Withrow
MOST VALUABLE PLAYER
ALL-STAR TEAM

Jack Burns

Gerry McCue
ALL-STAR TEAM

Jack Withrow and Gerry McCue were honored by being placed on the CLASS B ALL-STAR TEAM. Jack Withrow also received the Most Valuable Player Award at the CLASS B TOURNAMENT at Mannheim.

Mike Dario

Ready? Aim!!—

WHA-Hopin?

Fight—Team—Fight!

"And then she said...!"

A quiet day in assembly!!!

Actually Ohm's law doesn't always apply here

Do, Re, Me...

Friday 3:30

"Seniors"

Genius at work

The line-up

See! It's a cinch!

Your story touches me!
But...

"Who, ME? Fail a test!"

Why not W.H.

"Down the hatch... Never stop!"

"Something of interest, gang?"

"Wie geht's?"

"Mess Hall"

Biology?

Future budget balancers?

Is that a fact!

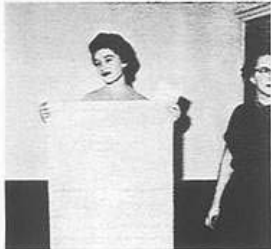

"Ain't love grand?"

"Ready? Jump!"

Future Seniors?

"Dior? No, Lay!"

"MMMUSCLES!"

UP... UP... And Over

— "FANG!"

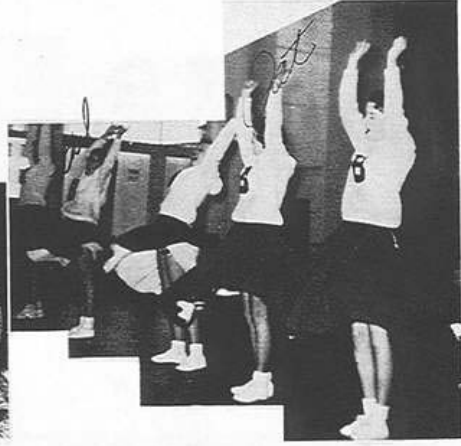

Let's go girls!

Alma Mater masters

Davy Crockett

"F-I-G-H-T!!!"

Bucking for an A

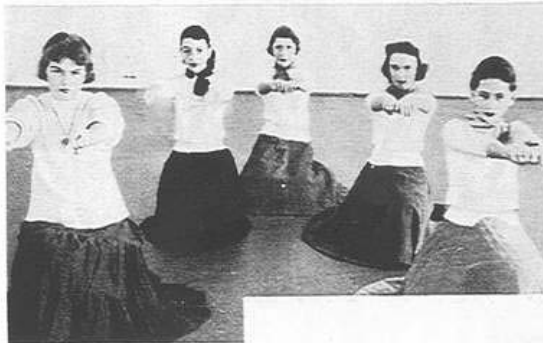

Caught in the act!

Intellectual type

Stars of tomorrow

Fifteen cheers for Junior High!

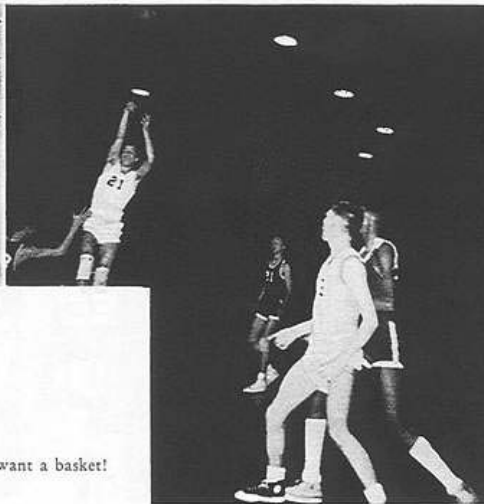

Stranger in Paradise

Judy: A good skate

My feet are cold

We want a basket!

S-T-R-E-T-C-H!

What's a little arsenic?

Notice: The red pencil

Surprise!

"AGH" (Algebra Geometry Headache)

"Seniors: Faith can move mountains"

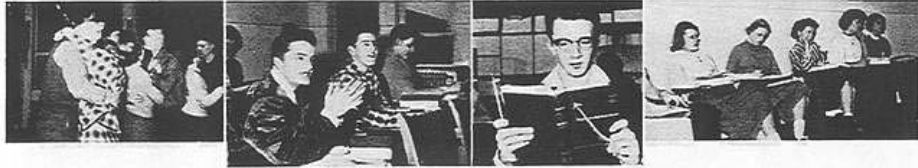

Gab Fest

He's our man!

And I thought chivalry had vanished!

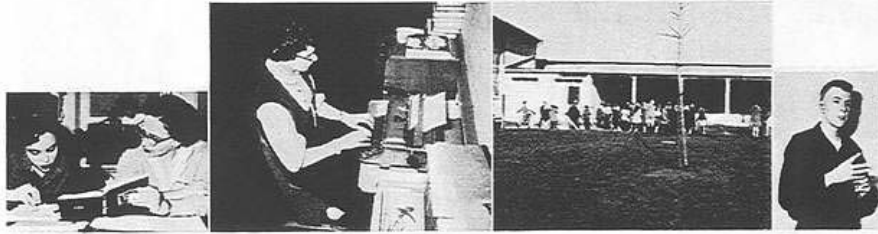

Takes 2 to tango

Eager to learn (?)

Just doing what comes naturally

"Let's see  $\pi R^2 \dots$ "

Und so weiter...

The most studious

Rivals of the high school

Well, she said...

How about the firing squad?

We won!

Happy?

Diplomat!

Test?

Conference?

"AHHH! Mennn!"

"Any further defense?"

"and furthermore..."

Germany

Germany with its chimney sweeps,
Octoberfests and crowded streets,
Bavaria with its recreation,
Students with a salutation,
Children with a smile so gay,
Old cathedrals where people pray.

With all her wonders,
And her tales of old;
With all her greatness
Her brave deeds and bold.

Tall castles of old kings
And ruins around the earth,
From the ground old relics bring;
All mothers there gave royal birth.

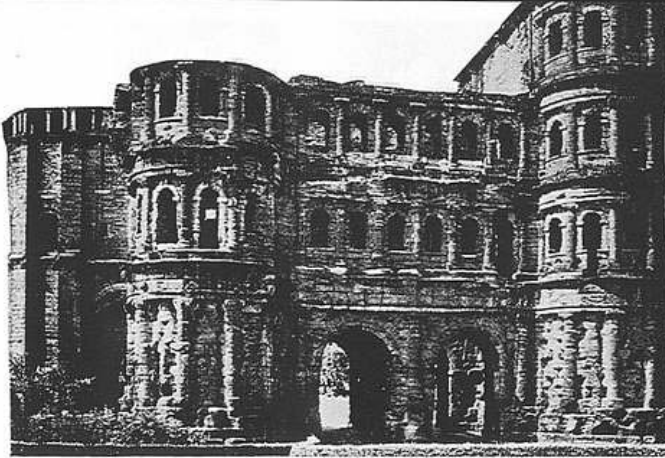

Lofty trees in forests tall
And those with foliage green;
From her towering mountains, the centuries call
What history they have seen.

Germany is a fairy tale come true
With its museums and castles too
With twenty pfennig you can see
The wonderful things that used to be.

REMEMBER TRIER

Our nearest outlying city is Trier, the oldest city in Germany, founded by the Romans in 15 B.C. The name at that time was Augusta Treverorum which means the city of the Emperor Augustus.

In the third century it became capital of the western Imperium Romanum. From here Constantine the Great ruled his western empire. Under Constantine's reign Trier became a center of Christianity.

In the fifth century the Roman authorities left Trier under the pressure of the Germanic migration. The Franken tribe conquered the city and western Europe.

When the grandsons of Charlemagne divided the realm in 870 A.D., Trier fell under the reign of the East Franconian realm or the Germany of today.

Out of the Roman ruins Trier grew again into a prosperous period, especially under the fruitful reign of the Archbishop Balduin from Luxembourg (1307—1354). During this period the citizens of Trier hoped to become a free state within the realm, but their star began to sink.

In the fourth century Trier was one of the four metropolitan cities of the Roman Empire. In the late medieval era Trier was an important ecclesiastical and secular capital. Two hundred years later Trier numbered only 3,000 inhabitants.

When Napoleon gained control over large parts of Europe in the early 1800's he eliminated in general the secular powers; therefore the secular power of the bishop of Trier was ended. Thus the charm of the city of today lies in its history of the past.

The nineteenth and twentieth centuries led Trier, in spite of her many misfortunes, especially during the second World War, out of its narrowness as a little rural town to a wider scope for traffic and industry. Because of its great historical heritage, it sees many thousands of visitors every year. The Trier of today has 80,000 inhabitants, is the seat of a bishop, is the main city of the county of Trier, and has main offices of Bundesbahn (Federal Railroads) and Bundespost (Federal Post Offices). Since Trier is the main center of the wine growing district along the Mosel, Saar, and Ruwer Rivers, it has numerous administrative offices for wine producing estates. From the wine cellars, famous Mosel Wine is sent to many parts of the world.

Along with the modern attractions of Trier the monuments signifying past glories still remain. The Porta Negra, the Roman baths, the Basilika (a former Roman market hall), the Amphitheater, and the Roman Bridge are reminders of the Roman period.

This city is only one example of the many rich cultural and colorful historic advantages that surround us here in Bitburg.

WE MEET OUR NEIGHBORS

One of the aims of the students and teachers of Bitburg High is to better the relationship between Americans and our foreign neighbors with whom we are living.

A special project planned by our school to help accomplish this goal was the International Music Festival. It was held at the Bitburg Air Base Service Club on December 20.

Nationalities represented at this gathering were American, Canadian, German, and French. Also participating in the program were schools in Luxembourg and Belgium. Most of the participating schools performed in their native language and occasionally sang a song in English. Since this activity occurred at Christmastime, the theme of the program was Christmas. The students sang the carols of their country as well as other selections.

Through the music presented on that day we learned much about the people who are now our neighbors. We hope to continue exchanging ideas to help bring about better understanding.

